When SHTF and society collapses, you will want to have an ample food and water supply on hand to feed your family.

But how do you get started? Does it have to be expensive? What do I store and what do I leave out?

This prepper emergency food storage guide answers these questions and many more, including...

- * A simple system to prevent your stored food from going bad.
- * Which type of food you will want to store for a crisis situation (not MREs!)
- * How to build up your food storage for as little as $10 a week.
- * Why this ONE thing will be the most important thing after a disaster (not food).
- * What to store so your family doesn't get allergies or appetite fatigue.
- * What you should always store if you have children.
- * Which foods will keep morale high and give everyone a psychological boost.
- * How much water should you store and how can you keep it from getting contaminated?

...and many more critical survival food storage secrets!
