It's always catastrophic when the life cycle goes full circle and we lose someone near and dear to us. But do we really lose them totally? That is the question that surrounds a suburban family as they witness events that press the limits of reality and make them wonder if they are really surrounded by their lost loved ones or is nature playing a cruel trick on them. Is there really a life after death? Can our passed loved ones communicate with us in some way? This ordinary family is confronted with those questions and more as it struggles to believe or not believe the events happening around them.
